NO RECORDING

Do not take any photos or record video and/or audio of the screening. This could not only lead to you being banned from the location, but also hurt the chances of more Delayed Viewings coming to overseas locations.

The Japanese entertainment industry is very protective of their material. Please respect the creators by not taking pictures, and also tell others to stop recording if you see them doing so!

NO LITTERING

Take your cups, bags, booklets and used snap lights with you and either place them in the designated garbage bin or dispose of them correctly.

Please show your gratitude to the participating locations by not leaving behind your garbage. We want to be respectful guests, so there is a chance for more events like this in the future!

NO YAKKAI

"Yakkai" (Japanese for "nuisance" or "obnoxious") describes any calls or actions with the sole intention of disrupting or annoying other attendees. Because they are banned at concerts, they're also not welcome at any screenings.

"Yakkai" includes (but is not limited to) mixes, tigering, modded penlights, KB fans and physically obstructing others.

Before The Live...

- Doing calls is surprisingly exhausting. Make sure to keep yourself hydrated if you are doing them!
- Also, eat something before the DV. The concert goes on for 3-4 hours and it is not certain if there will be a break. However, the concert itself will have several MC parts, so you could use these parts to grab a drink/snack if necessary.
- Bring a towel and put on some deodorant if you're planning to do calls. You will sweat a lot.
- On the topic of sweat... in case you are planning to come in cosplay, prepare to put your wig away during the DV! Don't forget your wig bag!
- Get a penlight for the calls. Don't worry if you don't have one though, some attendees might bring extras, or snap lights as a substitute!

Welcome to WONDERFUL STORIES

Hello! Thank you for picking up a copy of our booklet!

We're super excited to release this booklet to support the first large-scale Delayed Viewing (or DV for short) of an Aqours concert in Europe! Today, you'll see the first leg of their third Live Tour, "WONDERFUL STORIES", recorded at the MetLife Dome in Saitama on June 9th 2018.

What you have in your hand right now will be your "little helper" for the event. Whether you're unfamiliar with Love Live or a die-hard fan since the beginning, this book explains all of the calls, the Do's and Don'ts of a live and provides the setlist for today's screening!

The first part will introduce you to calls, a way to support performers on stage during the live and to unite with the other attendees to cheer on Aqours. The second half of this booklet will list lyrics and call guides for all the songs in the live, so you can join in with everyone!

We hope you will enjoy the screening! Aqours... Sunshine!!

Who Are Aqours?

Aqours is the second idol group in the "Love Live!" franchise, a multimedia project centered around nine girls who start an idol club at their school. Developed by Dengeki G's magazine, music publisher Lantis and animation studio Sunrise back in 2010, the series has grown ever since and has a fan following all around the world.

Aqours debuted in 2015 in the "Love Live! Sunshine!!" series. With two anime seasons, an upcoming movie and three major live concerts, this group has grown at an exponential pace. Each of the nine performers represents one of the characters on the stage, bringing the songs and scenes from the series to life.

ABOUT THE LIVE

What are Calls?

Audience participation is an important part of idol concerts and Love Live is no exception. During certain parts of a song, fans will perform coordinated calls and light stick motions, known as "wota". Sometimes, the artists themselves will join as well, signaling when to start certain calls or chants.

Below is a list of the most common calls in Love Live songs. If you feel lost at any point, don't worry - follow the people around you and go with the flow!

You will see people performing calls with penlights, electrically powered LED lights that can glow in either a single color or cycle through multiple ones. They are also known as Kingblades, named after a popular brand of such electric lights.

You can buy penlights from various places online (Mandarake, FromJapan, Amazon, eBay...). There are also special penlights released for Aqours Lives, although they're of limited quantity and more expensive than others.

Idols usually have image colors, of which Love Live! Sunshine!! is not exempt from. As such, waving penlights to the rhythm of the music, set to the image colors of your favorite idols, is the standard way of supporting them during their lives, while not being too obstructive.

While lightsticks (or snap lights) differ from penlights in that they generate light chemically and are generally dimmer in most cases, they still can be used if you don't own an LED light. You'll be limited to one color per stick, but you can still support the performers just the same.

Keep in mind that there is no "right way" to call! Don't worry if you occasionally chant at different times than other people, if it fits the beat and mood of the song you're good to go!

Doing calls is not obligatory! You can always enjoy the DV with no calls at all! But keep in mind that they are a huge part of the experience, so why not ask for a light from a fellow attendee and join the fun?

What are Calls?

Basic Calls

Hai Chant

Just yell "Hai!" to the beat. Swing your light forwards each time. This chant is usually used during upbeat instrumental parts of a song.

Fu Chant

"Fu" can be used in various ways, for example to highlight certain rhythms in a song or going along with a prominent instrument in the song. Sometimes the "u" is emphasized, indicated by "fu-" in this callbook.

Kecha

Not actually a call per se, but a "furi", a certain motion you perform. Move your hand in front of you, slowly raise it up to point towards the performers, and at the top, draw it back to your body again. Just imagine you are drawing a circle to the beat, because that is basically the motion of this furi. Used during slow songs or parts with no percussion.

Advanced Calls

Seno Call

"Seno" (meaning something like "ready, set...!") is used to set up another call/chant. Usually followed by a Hai Chant combo and/or PPPH (see below).

PPPH

A possible follow up to a Seno call by repeatedly chanting "ooooh- hai!" during the pre-chorus. PPPH is usually followed by a Hai Chant. (Bonus points if you bend your knees just slightly and do a little drum roll motion with your glowsticks during the "ooooh" part.)

Calls and Responses

Calls and Responses are used by the performers to introduce themselves. They will ask the audience to join them during the first MC. Here is a list of them, along with some translations and trivia! Colored parts of each C&R are the ones called by the performer, the black parts are the audience's response. Feel free to join in!

Aika Kobayashi as ~~Yoshiko~~ Tsushima
aka Aikyan

Yohane

Ohayohane!
Ohayoshiko!
Dakara Yohane yo!
Pyon— (do a little hop)

The first two lines are puns on "Ohayou" ("good morning"). "Pyon" is a little harder to explain. It's the onomatopoeia for a rabbit hopping, hence the hop. However, it's also used in a cute, joking manner at the end of sentences, so a fitting translation would probably be "Oops, we did that by accident— (we totally did it on purpose)"

Ai Furihata as Ruby Kurosawa
aka Furirin

Issho ni...
Ganbaruby!

Of course, this C&R includes the Ganbaruby pose, as seen in the anime.

Kanako Takatsuki as Hanamaru Kunikida
aka Kinchan

Ohana...
Maru!
(form a circle above your head)

"Hanamaru" literally translates to "flower circle", which is why you make a circle on the "maru" part.

Calls and Responses

Rikako Aida as Riko Sakurauchi aka Rikyako

Beach sketch... (Biichi suketchi)

Sakurauchi!

Suki na tabemono wa...?

Sandwich! (Sandowichi)

Kurae!

Riko-chan beeeam! (biimu)

My favorite food is...?

Sandwiches!

Take this! Riko Beeeam!

This C&R references Riko's neighborhood, hobby and favorite food (egg sandwiches). Rikyako only recently added the Riko Beam to her C&R.

Anju Inami as Chika Takami aka Anchan

Kan Kan!

Mikan!

Kan Kan!

Mikan!

Kaaan Kaaan...

Mi-ka-n!

"Mikan" is the Japanese word for "tangerine". This C&R was originally made for Anchan by Shukashuu and Furirin, her fellow CYaRon members, while she came up with the final, emphasized repeat.

Shuka Saitou as You Watanabe aka Shukashuu

Zensoku zenshin...

Yousoro! (point to the stage)

Kara no...

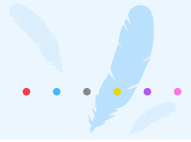

Keirei! (salute)

Full speed ahead...

Aye Aye!

And...

Salute!

Nanaka Suwa as Kanan Matsuura aka Suwawa

Minna-san,
gokigen ika ga kanan?
Daibu ii kanji!
Yoshi - jaa, hagu shiyou!

How is everyone doing?
We're feeling good!
Alright - then let's hug!

Several puns are hidden here: The call replaces "kana" with "Kanan", and the "daibu" in the response is also how "dive" is written in the Japanese syllabary.

Arisa Komiya as Dia Kurosawa aka Arisha

Daiyahoo!
Daiyahoo!
Buu buu desu wa...
(repeat)

Aina Suzuki as Mari Ohara aka Ainya

Minna-san, shiny!
Shiny!
And... lock on!
(pretend to get shot)

Calls and Responses

Asami Tano as Sarah Kazuno

aka Asamin

Gomen kudasaima-sarah!

Irrashaima-sarah!

Minna issho ni...

Yokkora-sarah!

(do a squat, lift arms to the sides)

The C&Rs of Saint Snow were suggested by fans in Uraaji. Leaving out the "Sarah" puns, this one translates to:

Excuse me!

Welcome!

Everyone together...

Heave-ho!

"Yokkorase" is an "expression of physical effort" - another translation could be something like "alley-ooop".

Hinata Satou as Leah Kazuno

aka Hinahina

Nee-sama no imouto wa...?

Kazuno Leah!

Leah-chan power juuden dekitemasu ka?

Leah-juu!

(do the Saint Snow pose)

Sarah's little sister is...?

Leah Kazuno!

Is your Leah Power charged?

Fully charged!

"Leah-juu" is a combination of Leah's name and the "juu" from "juuden" (electrical charge) - even though it's pronounced the same, it's unrelated to the well-known slang word "riajuu" ("normal person").

Saint Snow's C&Rs are a little more involved - in case you have trouble with them, check out Hinahina's video tutorial:

twitter.com/satohina1223/status/989293745127358464

The following chapter contains not only the lyrics, but also the call guides for every song in today's screening. A call guide contains information on where and when to use each type of chant introduced before, so attendees are aware of which calls the majority of the audience will be using.

The guides are color-coded for your convenience:

Red text are chants, such as Hai Chants, Fu Chants or PPPHs.

Blue text marks lyrics to sing along to.

Green text marks parts of the song to clap to - refer to the notes next to the text to find out the pattern or speed to use.

Finally, text with a background color is used for any other kind of instruction, such as light color changes or other member-specific instructions.

If you have any questions, feel free to ask other attendees - and remember, there is no correct way to call! The call guides in this booklet only include the most common calls and chants used in the lives. As long as you go along with the beat and the mood of the song, you can't go wrong!

If this guide has piqued your interest and you want to look for call guides for more songs or with a different set of calls, check out these sites:

FuwaFuwaTime - nanodesu.moe/fuwafuwatime

FuwaFuwaTime is a collaboration with Team ONIBE, a group of translators focusing on Love Live! content. The site offers an interactive callguide, which allows you to listen to the songs, while at the same time learning the calls, assisted by timed visual and SFX cues.

Aqours & Saint Snow UCA - aqoursuca.jimdo.com

The Unofficial Call Account is a Japanese site, but one of the most complete collections of callguides, and very frequently updated. They're also very active on Twitter in order to find changes in calls from concert-goers and LV attendees, or run polls on possible updates.
